COURSE DESCRIPTION

How the world has changed over the past five hundred years. It has become increasingly integrated, as people, ideas, and goods move all over the planet. Take the case of Asia, where much of the world’s innovation occurred up to the 1500s and large continental empires controlled most of the territory in India and China. From the 16th to the 20th century, Mughal India, Ming and Qing China, and Tokugawa Japan beginning in the 17th century increasingly faced a growing challenge from Western maritime powers, including Portugal, Spain, the Netherlands, Great Britain, France, and the United States. By the late 19th century, these empires had divided up much of Asia and Africa into colonial domains and spheres of influence. They imposed unequal treaties on China and Japan, establishing treaty ports such as Shanghai and Kobe. In this course, students will learn about the history of Western imperialism in Asia both chronologically and spatially as the Fall 2018 voyage retraces the 15th century travels of Portuguese explorers as they navigated their way down the west coast of Africa and from the east coast all the way to India, setting the stage for the global competition for empire that would emerge over the next five centuries. This course will maximize the potential of each of the ports we will visit to tell the story of how the modern world of globalization in which we now live was created.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Students will demonstrate:

- Ability to analyze and interpret historical materials, such as documents, artifacts, and images
- Ability to engage in chronological reasoning, to understand causation and change over time
• Ability to examine critically how people in the past understood their own history, in scholarly works and in popular forms such as myths or commemorations
• Ability to interpret, write, and speak about the past using evidence and according to the standards and expectations of the historical discipline.

FIELD WORK

Semester at Sea field experiences allow for an unparalleled opportunity to compare, contrast, and synthesize the different cultures and countries encountered over the course of the voyage. In addition to the one field class, students will complete independent field assignments that span multiple countries.

Field Class:

The field class for this course is on Thursday, 25 October in Cochin, India.

Field Class attendance is mandatory for all students enrolled in this course. Do not book individual travel plans or a Semester at Sea sponsored trip on the day of your field class. Field Classes constitute at least 20% of the contact hours for each course, and are developed and led by the instructor.

The Colonial and Spice Trade Culture of Cochin

Visit Portuguese, Dutch, and British colonial sites, including church where Vasco da Gama was buried, Fort Kochi and the Indo-Portuguese Museum, a walk around Princess Street to appreciate colonial architecture, and Mantancherry.

Objectives: To distinguish the colonial influences in Cochin and the interplay of cultures at work in a center of the early modern spice trade.

Assignment: Please observe and record every colonial influence you see in terms of architecture, food, clothing, and any other signs of colonialism. What is significant about the physical and symbolic remains of colonialism? What effects to colonial powers such as the Portuguese have on the places they colonized.

On returning to the ship, you will write a paper, 4-5 pages, about your impressions. Try to incorporate the readings and our class discussions into your analysis.

Independent Field Assignments

The Fall 2018 Voyage will follow a similar route to the one taken by the Portuguese as they navigated their way down the west coast of Africa and eventually to India. Keep this in mind as we visit the different ports, each of which was impacted by European colonialism and transformed by new global connections.
Photographic Essay: As part of your field class grade, you will write a photographic essay in which you document the three themes of the course—exploration, colonization, and globalization—exemplified in the different port cities.

METHODS OF EVALUATION

The grade for this course will consist of the following parts:
- Participation and Attendance 10%
- Field Assignments 20%

ATTENDANCE/ENGAGEMENT IN THE ACADEMIC PROGRAM

Attendance in all Semester at Sea classes, including the Field Class, is mandatory. Students must inform their instructors prior to any unanticipated absence and take the initiative to make up missed work in a timely fashion. Instructors must make reasonable efforts to enable students to make up work which must be accomplished under the instructor’s supervision (e.g., examinations, laboratories). In the event of a conflict in regard to this policy, individuals may appeal using established CSU procedures.

LEARNING ACCOMMODATIONS

Semester at Sea provides academic accommodations for students with diagnosed learning disabilities, in accordance with ADA guidelines. Students who will need accommodations in a class, should contact ISE to discuss their individual needs. Any accommodation must be discussed in a timely manner prior to implementation.
A letter from the student’s home institution verifying the accommodations received on their home campus (dated within the last three years) is required before any accommodation is provided on the ship. Students must submit this verification of accommodations to academic@isevoyages.org as soon as possible, but no later than two months prior to the voyage.

STUDENT CONDUCT CODE

The foundation of a university is truth and knowledge, each of which relies in a fundamental manner upon academic integrity and is diminished significantly by academic misconduct. Academic integrity is conceptualized as doing and taking credit for one’s own work. A pervasive attitude promoting academic integrity enhances the sense of community and adds value to the educational process. All within the University are affected by the cooperative commitment to academic integrity. All Semester at Sea courses adhere to this Academic Integrity Policy and Student Conduct Code.

Depending on the nature of the assignment or exam, the faculty member may require a written declaration of the following honor pledge: “I have not given, received, or used any unauthorized assistance on this exam/assignment.”
